

QUEBEC CITY

It all started in 1535, when Jacques Cartier landed here, and eventually the first wooden fort and fur trading post were created. Ever since, Quebec has become an immense city offering beautiful views, architecture, and food. Visit the famous Chateau Frontenac, which is also the world's most photographed hotel, or visit one of the other 36 different national historic sites which are all a sight to behold. When walking through the Old Port or the Plains of Abraham it is almost possible to feel and touch the history that made this the capital of its province. Whether it is summer or winter, both seasons are able to create an unforgettable experience!

DINING

In a cultural city such as Quebec City, there is a heavy influence of various cultures making the most tasteful food you've ever tasted before. Expect influences from France, Italy, and Canadian dishes. Especially the French heritage is felt strongly, not only when walking around in the city, but also enjoying the food. Near the river, a lot of different bistros, cafes, and restaurants can be found. This gives you the chance to enjoy a beautiful coastline and great food at the same time. For example, spend your afternoon at the Musee de la Civilisation and right next, eat a multicultural dinner at Panache.

Or why not travel a bit more into the city center and enjoy a cozy dinner at the Chez Boulay Bistro Boreal. Here you can enjoy a very tasty Planche de charcuterie de la Mer, or a Foie gras de canard de la ferme Le Canard Goulu en terrine. Whatever you are in for, you will be able to find it in Quebec City.

CONTI CAFFÈ

With a great selection of food, make sure to try out the salmon tartare and the mushroom soup, the taste of Paris will be served right here in Quebec City. The staff is ready to assist you in making choices that fit your mood best and are always serving you with a smile.

DO & SEE

Quebec City is full of history and this can be felt at every turn you take. A good starting point for your journey of exploration is in the middle of Old Québec as you cast your eyes upon the iconic Chateau Frontenac. Then, take a walk alongside the fortifications of Québec and literally set foot on a piece of history. Once you have acquired that historic feeling, walk on down to Place Royale as you make your way to Quartier Petit Champlain and go on a shopping spree. After all that walking and window shopping, enjoy the green heart of Québec, the Plains of Abraham, as you sit down and relax, realize that you are sitting on what was once a historic battle scene in 1759. Québec City is full of surprises, and you will need all your time to discover what it has to offer, pack your bags, tie your shoes and begin your journey!

OLD QUEBEC

The beautiful old district in Québec offers a great view on the Chateau Frontenac watching over the city. Here you can find various churches, visit monuments and as you move towards the lower town and you can feel you're surrounded by an actual fortified colonial city.
